The Parish of St Anthony's Glen Huntly & St Aloysius' Caulfield

The Parish of St Anthony's, Glen Huntly, was established in 1914, and the Parish of St Aloysius' Caulfield was established in 1919.

These two parishes, neighbours for 84 years, were formally partnered in 2003 and were amalgamated as one single Parish in 2008.

In his remarks at the time, Archbishop Denis Hart prayed that "these arrangements will be a rich opportunity for the parishioners to renew their commitment to the Lord and to the building up of his Church" and invoked the blessing of almighty God on the priests and parishioners.

We are committed to the safety, wellbeing and dignity of all children and vulnerable adults.

Safeguarding Training: New Platform

As of 12 June, our Safeguarding Essentials Training will move to a new platform called "Tribal Habits". Nothing changes

If you have done your training before 12 June there's nothing you need to do.

However, after 12 June, anyone completing the online training will need to do so via the new platform. Once registered on Tribal Habits, the Code of Conduct and Safeguarding Essential Training will appear as separate modules to complete. You will receive a certificate on completion of each of these.

Please email the Parish Office with your certificates so that we can document and keep our records up to date. Once you've completed training on the new platform, automatic email reminders will be sent for future renewals.

Link to Tribal Habits platform can be found at:

If you have any further questions or difficulties logging in, please contact the parish office.

Corpus Christi Procession

More than 5,000 Catholics gathered in Melbourne for the Corpus Christi procession, the annual public witness to faith that marks the Solemnity of the Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ. Worshippers thronged the city streets in prayer, song and adoration, as the Eucharist was carried from St Patrick's Cathedral to Federation Square as a sign of Christ's presence among his people.

Inside St Patrick's Cathedral, the celebration began with exposition and adoration of the Blessed Sacrament. The liturgy featured hymns including St Thomas Aquinas' 'O Salutaris Hostia' and 'Pange Lingua Gloriosi'. The great Catholic thinker and poet was commissioned by Pope Urban IV in the 13th century to write the liturgy for the feast day, and St Thomas Aquinas is credited with providing the language of devotion to the Holy Eucharist.

Come, let us witness publicly to the hope that brings healing and life. In his homily, Archbishop Peter A Comensoli reflected on the Eucharist as the heart of Christian belief and the source of mission. 'At this moment, we pause before the great mystery at the centre of our faith, the gift of the Blessed Eucharist,' he said. 'Here, the Body and Blood of Christ, his flesh, is given to us for the life of the world'.

He said the procession was a way to carry Christ into places marked by struggle and need. 'We carry the Blessed Eucharist through the streets, because Christ desires to enter every heart and every place, especially those marked by anxiety, suffering and the wounds that we carry,' he said. He also urged the faithful to see the procession as a public act of hope: 'Come, let us witness publicly to the hope that brings healing and life.'

11th Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year A

Dear brothers and sisters in Jesus,

In the gospel we hear: “When he saw the crowds, he had compassion for them, because they were harassed and helpless, like sheep without a shepherd”. This is the way in which humanity appears to Jesus as described in the Gospel of Matthew: harassed, dejected, burdened. His entire ministry is focused on addressing and remedying this situation. This is the “harvest” for which “labourer's” are required.

Today’s readings tells us that we are all asked to transform others with the “Good News” of God’s love, mercy, forgiveness, and salvation.

Each of us has received grace and talents from God without charge, and so we have to give without charge through our simple, responsible, sharing of our lives. This is the calling of every Christian through his or her Baptism. Now, it is we who continue this ministry.

Jesus is active in our lives through the Sacraments. In addition, the Lord God gives us the Holy Spirit, the One Who teaches us, and reminds us of all that Jesus has said to us. We are invited to become one with God and Jesus, and to let the Holy Spirit work through us.

As Christians sharing Jesus’ mission, we can bring healing and wholeness to people with whom we come in contact. Although we cannot raise the dead, we can help people to recover interest and a zest for living. People can be physically alive but dead in many other respects. “Cleansing the lepers” means rehabilitating and bringing people back fully into our communities all those who, for one reason or another, are marginalized, rejected, despised, or ostracized on the basis of race, nationality, marital status, financial condition, religion or gender. We have to help people, to free themselves of addictions and turn their lives to God.

Our call and mission must start from somewhere. We must start this mission with ourselves. It must begin in our homes, families, and communities. Charity begins at home. This is important because we must first become God’s people before becoming God’s disciples.

We ask God to keep us faithful to his call to be his people and disciples.

..... God Bless

George knocked on the door of his friend’s house. When his friend’s mother answered he asked, “can Albert come out to play?” “No,” said the mother, “it’s too cold.”
“Well, then,” said George, “can his football come out to play?”
